Animal Reiki

ENERGY MEDICINE

Ventura, California

LIFE FORCE ENERGY INSTITUTE provides holistic healing through the practice of energy medicine for animals, as well as their human companions. Therapies include Reiki, as well as Pranic and QiGong. Animals respond exceptionally well to energy therapy. They are sensitive to energy fields and absorb the energy of their guardians and environment, which can affect their physical and emotional health.

We provide in-home and in-hospital visits, as well as personal sessions at animal shelters, rescue centers and sanctuaries, based on location. We work synergistically with veterinarians and doctors, as a complementary modality to western medicine.

Reiki is now one of the top three complementary in-patient therapies in US hospitals, according to an AHA survey.

Animal Reiki

During a Reiki session, animals often experience a deep state of peace and relaxation, as Reiki clears imbalances and blocked chakras, allowing for the flow of new energy and harmonious patterns of health to emerge. Physical contact is not a requirement and typically the practitioner offers Reiki hands off. In this way, the animal controls the treatment and can accept Reiki from a distance or settle into the practitioners hands.

"Kathleen did energy treatment on my cat at the vet hospital while he was on an IV. I was miraculously able to bring my cat home as a result of her powerful energy work, which saved my cat from euthanasia and gave him more time on this earth." - David V.

"Energy medicine is not just the latest fad in alternative health care. It is a fundamentally new way of grasping who we are. The medical community is listening."

- Dr. Christiane Northrup

How can Reiki benefit animals?

Reiki is a powerful, gentle and non-invasive therapy that addresses physical, mental and emotional issues and brings healing to the source. It is a complementary modality to western medicine.

Reiki strengthens the immune system, relieves pain, facilitates healing and promotes longevity. It reduces the side-effects of prescription drugs and other treatments, as well as environmental pathogens and toxins.

Reiki improves behavioral problems, heals anxiety-related issues, engenders vitality and empowers the body to heal.

Reiki provides support in geriatric, palliative and end of life care. When physical healing is no longer possible, it eases the transition.
